8 pm An Evening of Folk and Fun, starring Stanley Accrington

If you don't know Stanley Accrington, prepare to be amazed. He surely is a contender for England's Funniest Man. He can produce one of his offbeat songs at the drop of a hat - about embarrassing situations, the daftness of everyday life, the hypocrisy of the great and the good - nothing seems to be beyond the sharp edge of his wit. Some songs are silly, some are serious, and he always keeps the audience guessing what's coming next.

Stanley - yes, he is named after the football team - has done nearly 2,000 gigs including over 200 folk festivals. The last time he performed near Winster was on Peak Rail steam train, moving along the aisles. Usually he dreams up a new song about his host venue - so Winster look out! What keeps him going is the compulsive urge to write songs, to incorporate new styles and, mainly, to have fun. So come and join in it.

Tickets £7 available from Winster Post Office. Show starts 8pm. Door open 7.15. Bring your own drink and snacks.
